Tuesday, October 25, 2011, 7:30 PM

The October 25th meeting will feature a special program by historian and photographer Rich Taylor about the long lost

Lehigh & New England Railroad.

One of New Jersey's least-known of the heavy coal-hauling railroads. Connecting the anthracite fields of Pennsylvania with New England, the L&NE threaded its way through the northwest New Jersey hills on its own main line and some of that of the New York, Susquehanna & Western, also crossing Lackawanna's Sussex Branch along the way. Rich's program will show the trains, facilities and operations from the perspective of an active railfan who saw the railroad cease in the 1960s. The Tri-State equipment committee saved and restored one of the significant pieces of the L&NE, caboose 580 in Whippany, the first built of the five steel cabooses on the L&NE. See our website for more information and photos.

The meeting begins at 7:30. Admission is free. All are welcome. Please visit our website www.tristaterail.org to sign up to receive meeting notices via e-mail. You'll receive more news and last minute updates to events.
